TEAM BUILDING & PEOPLE DEVELOPMENT

WHY 7Cs

7Cs is a reference to the seven seas of the world, which are as diverse as our clients. We use a fun, simple model to help you develop the 7Cs of people and team development that will help your people to do what they do even more successfully.

WHY US

Clive Cosby is an experienced offshore race skipper who is now an inspirational speaker, SDI trainer and teambuilding facilitator. 'Having raced around the world under Clive's leadership, I would happily do so again', commented one of his 2004-5 BT Global Challenge Round the World crew; testament to Clive's skilled and effective hands-off manner. Clive firmly believes in empowering individuals to achieve their full potential.

PJ Stevens is, as one international agency Director noted, 'One of the top ten SDI Facilitators in Europe', whilst an International Airline stated 'Staff engagement (500 staff) doubled in the 12 months'. PJ is passionate about people, is a soft skills expert, speaker and conference host, specialising in high performance team work and relationship awareness. He has coached Olympic medallists and is a social sailor.

WHY SAILING

"On a sailboat the good teams will be those that find the next level where they can cover for each other, plan ahead and stay one step in front of the opposition. Sailing and especially racing puts the individual, the team and the leadership under pressure. How better to improve your team than through a shared learning experience?"

Ian Walker; former British America's Cup Team skipper, Olympic Sailor and current skipper on the VOR.

WHY SDI

SDI – Strength Deployment Inventory - is one of the most effective, memorable and engaging tools to help develop personal awareness, soft skills, relationship development and team work. To give you a feeling for it's power, 'Probably the best performance teambuilding programme I have been on at the Bank in 18 years', wrote one senior platform manager after an SDI programme with PJ.

In addition we are qualified to deliver MBTI, Belbin, 3Ps, S@W and other useful tools and models.
